

Ancient people

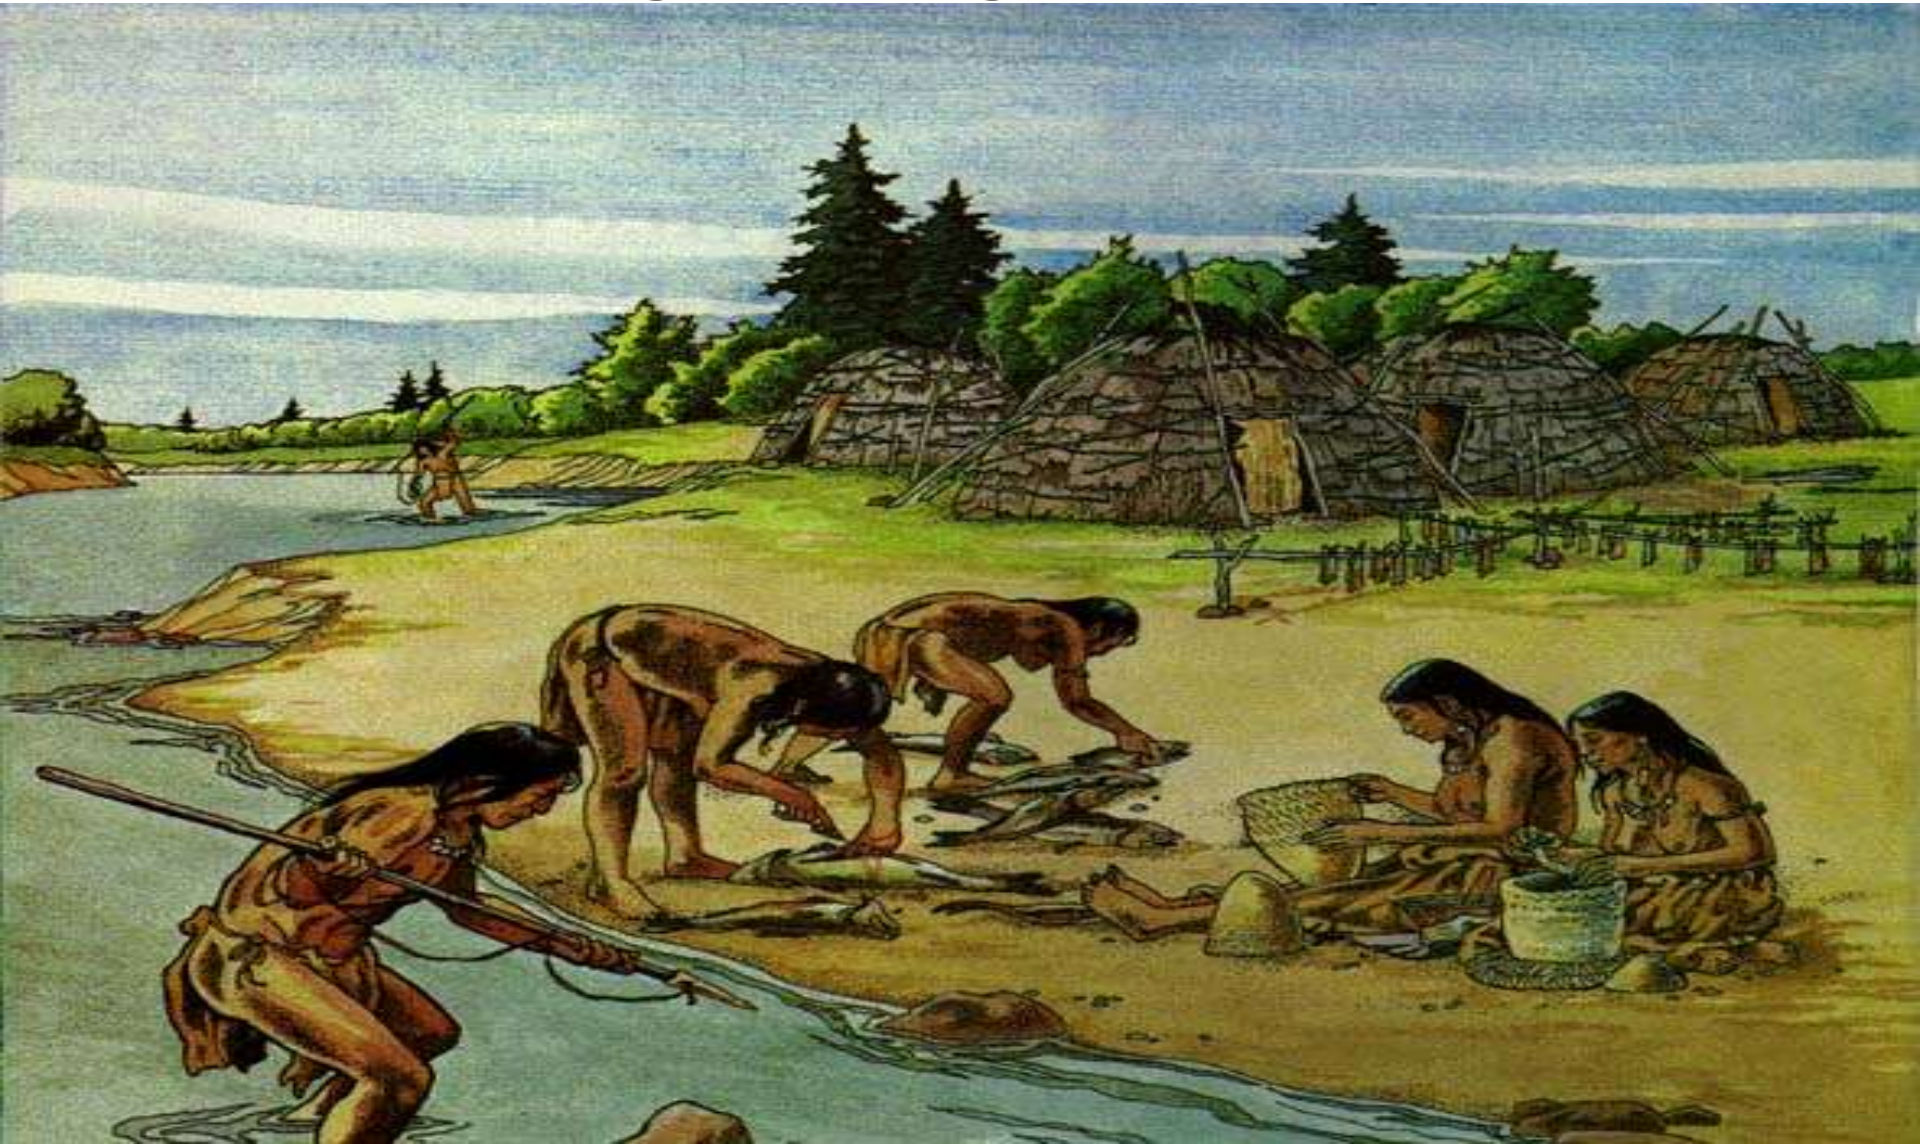

The most ancient people lived in hot countries. In East Africa, archaeologists find during excavations the bones of people who lived more than two million years ago.

The oldest man was very much like a monkey. He had a rough face, a wide nose, a heavy lower jaw, a forehead that extended backward. The gait of people was still not quite straight, jumping..

People lived in communities.
Neighboring and clan.

Man created a tool of labor. It was the ability to make tools was the difference between the most ancient people from animals..

The most ancient people were engaged in gathering, farming, cattle breeding, hunting.

From ancient people, we can learn to live in harmony with nature.
